Turnip looked at himself
in the mirror and said:
"Such huge ears! I don't like these ears at all."

At the breakfast table, his father thought to himself: "The wrinkles on my face could be hidden under a mask".

And his mother thought: "I can use a mask to hide my tiny eyes."

And they both said: "What a brilliant idea!"

Turnip excitedly walked towards the school. Anyone who saw him on the way thought to themselves: "What a beautiful mask! What a brilliant idea!"

When Turnip arrived to school, his classmates and teacher said: "What a beautiful mask! What a brilliant idea!"

And they all thought to themselves why they had never thought of covering up their orange hair, long noses and round mouths!

Turnip was happier than ever on that day and played so much. Nobody had noticed Turnip's large ears and everyone had complimented him on his beautiful mask and new look.
